Celebrating 150 years of a relentless vision toward pioneering a flourishing West, we are inviting towns, cities and counties across Colorado to set a long table in the heart of their community for people of all walks of life to share a meal and meaningful conversation, catalyzing greater community connectedness, empowered leadership and collaboration.

Like no other place, the table and a shared meal holds the catalytic potential to create a sense of belonging, lower barriers, reduce loneliness, and empower collaboration.

As a historic act in itself, gatherings will symbolize state-wide belonging, solidarity and a commitment to 150 more years of connection.

The Table Gatherings

Tables of all sizes set between April and November 2026 with marquee tables set in Pueblo at the State Fair, Denver and Fort Collins.

Leaders Set the Table

A cross-section of diverse, local leaders and neighbors work together to plan a shared meal at a long table of any length in the heart of their community between April and November 2026.

Co-Hosts

Individuals, organizations, and institutions representing the diversity of the community invite guests, ensuring a true cross-section of humans are invited and welcomed at the table.

The Meal & Table

Food, decorations, location and theme will reflect both the local community, as well as Colorado's history.

Conversation & Connection

With trained co-hosts guiding conversation at each table, guests will share stories around curated conversation prompts, sparking deeper connections.

150 years of Colorado. 150 tables.

Imagine tables stretching across Colorado in 150 communities, connecting all of us for good.

Reach + Measurement

Informed impact

Utilizing pre and post-campaign/event qualitative and quantitative surveys and interviews, we know we are making sustained impact in the communities and organizations we serve.

We will perform our own evaluation with table organizers across the state in the areas of leadership connection, formation, and civic engagement/belonging. We will also equip every organizer to survey and evaluate the impact made in their local community by setting a table.

*Findings from Past Table Gatherings + Campaigns**

- 40% plan to get more deeply involved in the city/community
- 25% plan to set their own table
- 48% commit to cultivate relationships with their neighbors, co-workers
- 73% connected with someone different than themselves
- 69% feels extremely or somewhat more comfortable talking to others
- 17% plan to meet up with someone they met at the gathering

Launching a Movement

Scaling from community-wide to neighborhood

Tables in towns, counties and cities is just the beginning of new (re)connections, relationships, collaborations and ongoing gathering and connection.

Following 150 Tables, each participating community and supporting organizations will be invited to join Table Together, a turn-key campaign to encourage neighborhood, street-level connection where individuals across the state host their neighbors for dinner.

Case Study: Colorado Springs

Two years ago, when Mayor Yemi Mobolade took office, one of his first initiatives was to connect humans: 1,000 Neighborhood Gatherings.

880 gatherings took place. For 150 Tables, The City of Colorado Springs and Hey Neighbor, a non-profit committed to connecting neighbors for sustained community impact, plan to set a long table in the city, as well as invite 150 neighborhood leaders to set tables.

One table can lead to a thousand.
